PROGRAM OF INTENSIVE EVANGELISM IN THE SYNOD OF MISSOURI.

For the Year Ending October, 1917.

1. Preamble to the Plan.

In our Lord's great commission (Matt. 28:19, 20), evangelism is given precedence over the other duties which he there assigns his Church. The reason for this is easily seen. Only as the Church, first disciples, can she baptize and teach. Men must enter the kingdom before they can receive the seal or be educated in the things of the kingdom. In the divine economy of redemption, regeneration must precede reformation.

The Church of today is coming more and more to put first things first. She is accordingly gaining in desire to evangelize, in plans to evangelize and in the work of evangelism. The noble word evangelism has suffered greatly from the evil diseases of professionalism, sensationalism and commercialism, and is itself in sore need of being saved. For the redemption of evangelism and the enlargement of our own beloved Church in Missouri, the following program of procedure is proposed:

II. Preparation of the Workers.

1. The pastor is the all-important human factor in the success of evangelism of any kind. As the recognized official leader of the people he must lead. As a rule, there is never more zeal for soul-winning in the pew than there is in the pulpit. Until the fires are built in the heart of the pastor the souls of his people will not be warmed. In this work, at least, "like priest, like people." Upon the ministry of our Synod primarily rests the responsibility of making this campaign a splendid success or a lamentable failure.

Let each pastor prepare himself unto the work by spending days and even weeks (1) reading evangelistic literature, such as sermons by Finney, Moody, Jones, Gypsy Smith, Torrey, Chapman, Sunday and others, and books like Finney's "Revival Lectures," Spurgeon's "The Soul-Winner," Jowett's "Passion for Souls," Holden's "Price of Power," Chapman's "Present Day Evangelism," Reischer's "Preacher Persuader," Goodell's "Pastoral and Personal Evangelism;" (2) studying the word of God as related to saving souls, when such books as these may be used with profit: Johnston's "Studies for Personal Workers" and McConaughy's "Christ Among Men;" (3) praying constantly for the baptism of the Holy Spirit and for God's direction of and blessing on the proposed work.

2. The people stand next to the pastor in importance. As the pastor prepares himself, so should he also
